TÉTRIS collective installation of the festival Architectonik May - June 2007 at Halles Alstom in Nantes	<	2007	>	This study attempted to trace, through etymological and historical research, the meaning of economy and ecology. By updating these notions regarding our contemporary way of thinking, by articulating them to the discovery of the phenomena of expenditure and dissipation, I engaged in a thought of the eco. This one, founded on the one hand on its Greek root (οἶκος : oikos) which means the environment, on the other hand open to our mode of consciousness of a global and dislocated ecosphere, considers the living environment.
CHANTIER VOLANT contemporary art trail VIAPAC June 2006 - March 2009 in Dignes-les-Bains Exhibition at French pavillon Metavilla within Venice International Architecture Biennale October 2006 in Venice	<	2006 - 09	>	Based on the attitude of contemporary architecture producers, on their respective ways of dealing with economy and ecology in their production processes, this work tried to outline the philosophical issue of fundamentals and outcomes of the thought of the eco. We produce what constitutes our living environment: we must understand what sustains it or leads it to exhaustion. Even more, it is by becoming aware of the irreversibility at work in our modes of production - and the anxieties that irreversibility generates - that we will be able to move in this world without breaking its precarious balance.
